Go the Distance with #GoUWPete

Even though our distance students are spread across the globe, we can still sense their passion for learning, drive to succeed, and pioneering spirit right here on the UW-Platteville campus. But we want to see it too! We want to see where you live, work, study, and have fun. So we've flattened our school mascot Pioneer Pete and are asking you to take him along with you on your next adventure. Show us where you are and what makes you proud to be a Pioneer!

- Share your #GoUWPete pictures on Facebook, Twitter or email them to distmarket@uwplatt.edu.
- Apply now for our STEM Scholars program and you could qualify for scholarships.

Marine pursues his education from across the globe

As a logistics officer with the United States Marine Corps,
James Rubocki is tasked with directing transportation support services to marines throughout the Pacific region, as well as developing and coordinating the training that allows his unit to complete missions successfully. With such a demanding role, Rubocki decided to pursue his master's degree in Integrated Supply Chain Management to ensure he had the tools necessary to succeed.

Know your FERPA rights

Under the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA), there are rules and regulations in place regarding the release and access of student information. While UW-Platteville generally will not release student record information, we do publish a student directory. The student directory includes student names, addresses, phone numbers, campus email addresses, and other information.

November 11 - For Veterans' Day and throughout the month of November, we will be paying special tribute to our active military and veteran students. Watch our website and Facebook and Twitter pages for articles and resources.

For more detailed information on our print-based and online course dates, review our academic calendars.
As part of our 150th anniversary series, we've reached out to alumni from the past 40 years of Distance Education and will be celebrating their stories. If you'd like to share your success story, email us at hindermanm@uwplatt.edu

Paying it forward: Professor inspired by distance learning encourages next generation

When John Clarkin, Ph.D. embarked on his educational path at UW-Platteville Distance Education in the early 1990's, he already had years of military and work experiences to influence his coursework. His Bachelor of Science in Business Administration degree marked the start of his new career path.
