1. Approval of the minutes from the February 17, 2011 meeting.
   The minutes were approved as distributed on a motion by Patricia Bromley and seconded by Patricia Jinkins.

2. Second reading – COUNSELED (Counselor Education) 7050, Practicum I – change in credits from 1-3 credits to 3 credits – effective fall 2011 – Jovan Hernandez.
   From the February 17, 2011 Graduate Council minutes: “Jovan Hernandez presented and answered questions. Jovan explained the change was needed to reduce the chances of students making mistakes when registering for the course. Second reading will be at the March 24, 2011 Graduate Council meeting.”
   Jovan Hernandez was present to answer questions. Credit change was approved on a motion by Rob Hasker and seconded by Regina Pauly.

This item was moved to the April 21, 2011 Graduate Council meeting.

4. Proposal for authorization to implement a new program – Master of Science in Distance Education Leadership – effective spring 2012 – Susan Hansen.

From the February 18, 2010 Graduate Council minutes: “Permission to plan new online master’s degree – M.S. in Distance Education Leadership – second reading – Susan Hansen. NOTE: Request for permission to plan; Graduate Council needs to notify APC of whether it approves the request for permission to plan. Colleen Kaiser was present to answer questions. Permission to plan was approved on a motion by Scott Ringgenberg and seconded by Lisa Riedle.”

From the January 28, 2010 meeting minutes: “Susan Hansen presented and answered questions. A committee in the Distance Learning Center researched possible new master’s programs and this request to plan came from that research. “With the increased need for distance education offerings, there is an equally important need to educate people who can develop, grow, and lead the organizations that will be providing for this increased access” (from the submitted entitlement to plan document). The goal of this new master’s degree would be “to prepare graduates to assume mid-level and senior responsibilities for planning, directing, designing, implementing, evaluating, research, and managing distance education programs” (from the submitted entitlement to plan document). This program is somewhat interdisciplinary and would be handled under Business Administration. This master’s degree would be an online program and will operate on a cost recovery basis. Second reading for this course will be at the February 18, 2010 Graduate Council meeting.”

Susan Hansen was present to answer questions. She reviewed the program focus and content.

David Van Buren asked about feedback from their survey. Susan responded that the feedback had been very positive from both future students and faculty. They had over 500 surveys completed and returned.

Mike Rowe wondered whether there would be an accounting course. Susan Hansen said maybe but it would probably not be needed.

Rob Hasker wondered whether students needed a business undergraduate degree. Susan answered not necessarily.

David Van Buren remarked that there wasn’t an ideal “home” right now; maybe within Business and Accounting. There might be a move in the future? Susan Hansen responded the program probably wouldn’t move.

Approval to implement the new program – Master of Science in Distance Education Leadership – was unanimously approved on a motion by Rob Hasker and seconded by Patricia Bromley.

From the February 18, 2010 Graduate Council minutes: “Permission to plan new online master’s degree – M.S. in Integrated Supply Chain Management – second reading – Wendy Brooke. NOTE: Request for permission to plan; Graduate Council needs to notify APC of whether it approves the request for permission to plan. Colleen Kaiser was present to answer questions. Permission to plan was approved on a motion by John Hammermeister and seconded by Lisa Riedle.”

From the January 28, 2010 meeting minutes: “Wendy Brooke presented and answered questions. A committee in the Distance Learning Center researched possible new master’s programs and this request to plan came from that research. “For purposes of this degree, Integrated Supply Chain is defined as the alignment of supply chain goals and objectives seen from the perspectives of business, industrial technology, and industrial engineering. At University of Wisconsin-Platteville these perspectives are housed in the following departments: Business and Accounting, Industrial Studies, and Mechanical and Industrial Engineering” (from the submitted entitlement to plan document). This master’s degree would be an online program and will operate on a cost recovery basis. Courses and faculty will be drawn from (but not limited to) Business and Accounting, Industrial Studies, and Mechanical and Industrial Engineering. Second reading for this course will be at the February 18, 2010 Graduate Council meeting.”

Wendy Brooke was present to answer questions. She reviewed the need, focus and content of the program.

David Van Buren asked if there was any negative feedback from other UWs. Wendy replied there was no opposition.

Discussion ensued.
Wendy Brooke indicated that the capstone course would be either a thesis or an in-depth independent study.

Regina Pauly inquired about library resources. Wendy indicated they had spoken with Karrmann Library staff. David Van Buren asked about the funding for library resources. Wendy indicated that library funding was included. Discussion ensued.

Patricia Bromley inquired about software technical support. Wendy replied there would be software technical support out of Milwaukee. Mike Rowe asked why SAP. Wendy said that SAP (“Systems, Applications, and Products in Data Processing”) is a strong, collaborative program, good support system and the license is campus wide.

Approval to implement the new program – Master of Science in Integrated Supply Chain Management – was unanimously approved on a motion by John Hammermeister and seconded by Bill Haskins.

From the February 18, 2010 Graduate Council minutes: “Permission to plan new online master’s degree – M.S. in Organizational Change Management – second reading – Stephen Kleisath. NOTE: Request for permission to plan; Graduate Council needs to notify APC of whether it approves the request for permission to plan. Donna Perkins was present to answer questions. Permission to plan was approved on a motion by Rob Hasker and seconded by Lisa Riedle.”

From the January 28, 2010 meeting minutes: “Stephen Kleisath presented and answered questions. A committee in the Distance Learning Center researched possible new master’s programs and this request to plan came from that research. The goal of this master’s degree would be graduates who would fill the need for organizational change managers. This would be an integrated degree covering such areas as “the nature of change, the change process, establishing the change vision, the origins of resistance, assessing readiness for change, communication strategies, and assessing stakeholders” (from the submitted entitlement to plan document). This master’s degree would be an online program and will operate on a cost recovery basis. The program would be operated out of Business and Accounting. Second reading for this course will be at the February 18, 2010 Graduate Council meeting.”

Stephen Kleisath and Elizabeth Swift were present to answer questions. Stephen reviewed the need, focus and content of the new program.

Mike Rowe asked if there would be a legal environment course. Stephen indicated the compliance management course would be sufficient.

Approval to implement the new program – Master of Science in Organization Change Leadership – was unanimously approved on a motion by Bill Haskins and seconded by Rob Hasker.

7. Request for approval to develop a new course – BUSADMIN (Business Administration) 7XXX, Organizational Change Leadership: Theory and Practice, 3 credits, beginning fall 2011 – Stephen Kleisath.

Stephen Kleisath presented and answered questions. This course would be an asset to both the Project Management program and the new Organization Change Leadership program. Course will be developed by Misty Lemon Rogers. Discussion ensued.

From the submitted permission to develop form: “The course provides an introduction to leadership theory and practice, both generally and specifically. Strategies for identifying and positively affecting the core of the organization will be discussed. Methods for adapting to and affecting change in interpersonal and group situations will be covered”.

Rob Hasker made a motion to approve the request to develop. It was seconded by John Hammermeister. Motion was approved.

8. Consideration to amend the School of Graduate Studies rules to bar simultaneous admission to more than one graduate degree program at a time, with an allowance for exceptions which may be granted upon approval by the Graduate Dean – Bill Haskins.

History –
From the January 26, 2006 Graduate Council minutes:
“7. Simultaneous pursuit of two master’s degrees – David Van Buren. Dr. Van Buren opened a discussion on the option of a graduate student simultaneously pursuing two master’s degrees. The example used was those students pursuing a Master of Science in Engineering and a Master of Science in Project Management. He wondered if they should adopt a policy of having students finish one degree and then start the other. Discussion ensued. Some members expressed the view that the real issue was the maximum number of credits we allow to transfer from other universities or from other graduate degree programs on campus. Should students be allowed to transfer ½ of their credits into another degree?
More discussion followed. No action was taken.”

From the September 21, 2006 Graduate Council minutes:
“6. Number of credits allowed as transfer – David Van Buren.
(Statement from David Van Buren: I believe that allowing up to 50% of credits to be transferred into our degree programs is excessive. How is it a University of Wisconsin-Platteville degree if 50% comes from another program? I would recommend that we establish a new limit of no more than 9 credits from other institutions AND no more than 12 credits from any combination from other institutions AND other University of Wisconsin-Platteville degree programs.)
Dr. Van Buren informed the Council of an email discussion between the UW System graduate deans regarding how many transfer credits are allowed at their institutions. Dr. Van Buren pointed out that the University of Wisconsin-Platteville is much higher than the others. Dr. Van Buren indicated that he realized that some of the programs were more restrictive in what they allowed. He wondered if perhaps we need a more overall restrictive policy.
Bill Haskins – Project Management has agreements in place that allow 12-15 credits of transfer.
Dominic Barraclough – Counselor Education allows 50%.
Alison Bunte – Master of Science in Education usually allows 9-12 credits of transfer but sometimes it is higher.
Patricia Bromley – Adult Education allows up to 15 credits of transfer.
Susan Hilal – Criminal Justice usually transfers 9-12 credits.
Lisa Riedle – commented that when earning a second master’s degree at the University of Wisconsin-Platteville students are allowed to transfer into the second master’s degree up to 50% from the first master’s degree.
David Van Buren – commented that the online programs do most of the double master’s.
Discussion ensued. He agreed that if the graduate deans put together a document summarizing the limits various campuses use on transfer of graduate coursework, he would forward it to the Graduate Council.
Patricia Bromley – suggested that maybe we should compare with other institutions outside of the UW System.”

From the 2010-2012 Graduate Catalog:
“Applying Credits Earned in One Graduate Program Toward Another Graduate Degree Credits from other University of Wisconsin-Platteville graduate degree programs may be applied to a second graduate degree at UW-Platteville upon the recommendation of the program faculty, up to a maximum of 50 percent of the credits required for the degree. The total of credits from other University of Wisconsin-Platteville degree programs and credits transferred from other institutions cannot exceed 50 percent of the credits required for the degree.”

From the 2010 – 2012 Graduate Catalog:
“Transfer Credits
The following guidelines apply to transfer credits to graduate programs at the University of Wisconsin-
Platteville:
• To be accepted for transfer, credits must be approved by more than one faculty member in the relevant program along with the dean of the School of Graduate Studies. Faculty may be 1) the program’s committee; or 2) some mix of the student’s advisor, program head, and a faculty member with expertise in the field.
• A minimum of 50% of the credits for a degree must be from the University of Wisconsin-Platteville graduate courses.
• Credits may be transferred only from a nationally or regionally accredited institution recognized by the Council for Higher Education Accreditation.
• Students must complete their graduate program within seven years of being admitted to the program at University of Wisconsin-Platteville (extensions may be granted). Once credits have been accepted as transfer credits, they become part of the current program of study, and the seven-year limit is based on the date of admission into the program.
Transfer credits will be officially recorded after the student has successfully completed one graduate course at University of Wisconsin-Platteville and only courses where the student received a grade of B or higher will be accepted."

Bill Haskins spoke regarding the difficulties encountered when a graduate student pursues two programs at one time. The example he used was a student pursuing both the Engineering degree and the Project Management degree.

David Van Buren asked that the council take another look at how many credits can transfer into a degree – both from other institutions and from other University of Wisconsin-Platteville degrees. Simultaneous pursuit of degrees involves two advisors, two sets of program requirements and is not a smooth operation. Tracking the change in programs and completion of courses, meeting two sets of degree requirements, etc. is very difficult.

Mike Rowe wondered what other institutions were doing. Maybe check that out.

David Van Buren remarked that we must maintain the integrity of each program. Maybe students could earn the first degree and then an additional certificate in the other area. Discussion ensued.

David Van Buren also discussed the PMP (Project Management Professional) certification. Students who have completed the PMP certification were originally granted 6 credits of credit for life experience credits in the Project Management program to cover PROJMGT (Project Management) 7010 and PROJMGT (Project Management) 7020. Engineering also grants the individual the same credit for life experience of six credits to cover 7010 and 7020. After an accreditation experience PMI indicated that University of Wisconsin-Platteville should not grant 6 credits of life experience covering 7010 and 7020 but should only grant three credits of elective. The Project Management program changed the credit for life experience to match their recommendation. However Engineering is still granting six credits of life experience covering 7010 and 7020.

Christine Storlie wondered why a student couldn’t just finish the first degree and then start the second degree. Discussion ensued.

Members were asked to spread the word and bring concerns and thoughts to the next Graduate Council meeting. This item will be included on the April 21st Graduate Council meeting agenda.
